February 2011 Beauty Round-Up 'Must Haves'

By April MacIntyre Jan 30, 2011, 3:43 GMT

If you are a movie star or simply want to look like one, get this creamy, shiny, easy to wear fire-engine red. On me, it leans towards a blue-red undertone which is oh so flattering, and the texture is a WINNER! It actually contains Champagne extracts, but no matter how much I licked my lips, no buzz. Great classic red for the purists.

Jack Frost has most of this country in his firm grip, and there is no let up in sight.

Hair and skin are under siege with the cumulative effects of icy cold wind and dry air conditions from forced heat, which combined has done a number on everyone's complexion, tresses and nails.

This is the time of year to prepare for the coming seasonal changes for Spring, and change up your routines in grooming so you look gorgeous for the fashion-conscious skin-baring seasons.

Monsters and Critics loves companies that use certified organic ingredients, and that stay far away from all animals.

Criteria for our picks in the best of beauty category differ from many mainstream beauty magazines and blogs, in that we look for items that fit the bill for the following checklist: The grooming products must be paraben-free, cruelty free, preferably American-made and unique in concept and packaging. We love female entrepreneurs and companies started by moms and women who create items that address smart, useful design and function.

Monsters and Critics has put these products to the test, and we have come up with our picks for February 2011 Best of Beauty for products that range from Lash enhancers to hair extensions, unique purse organizers to body care, face makeup and hair products and the best vitamin supplements and energy boosters for the money.

Tried and true, these clever products deliver what they promise and will not let you down. Take us shopping with you for the best of beauty February 2011.

Halle Berry and Zoe Saldana are fans of this natural curly hair line of products for women with curly, kinky, wavy, and/or natural African-American hair. Formulated with natural humectants, organic moisturizers, and curl enhancers. Lush and fragrant, and the results are perfect looking textured hair that is touchable, and glossy.

The products contain organic ingredients and no parabens, mineral oils, silicones, artificial colors or is animal tested. The items are in fun packaging, cocktail inspired with great names like Champagne & Caviar Curl Elixir and Curl Gel-les'c (pronounced Jealousy), to name a few.
